

SWCA Medical Summit Final Executive Summary

The booth journey worked.

The team moved from first contact to generated avatar, printed Twin Card, and goodie-bag handoff in roughly 60 seconds. The process needs polish, but the base workflow proved it can operate live, in front of attendees, under expo conditions.

Goal Choice Signal

Get Back To Life 23*Explore Advanced Care 20*Move With Less Pain 13

- Winner: Get Back To Life.
- Booth team reported especially strong, quick selection from women attendees.

Financial Closeout

- Total estimated event cost: $1,700.84 with 15% margin / overhead.
- Cost per lead: $30.37 across 56 live Twin Card leads.
- Cost per email sent: $36.97 across 46 sent emails.
- Assumptions: $600 staff, $75 transport/water, $800 reusable booth kit, $3.99 tracked model spend.
- The $800 printer/materials/roll-up/monitor kit can be reused for future booth events.

Executive Observations

- The avatar was a powerful emotional doorway, not just a novelty.
- Attendees described wanting honest conversations with themselves through their avatar.
- The next conversion gap is app activation: the completed journey should leave the user with an account, their twin inside VeeVee, and a reason to return.
- The event validated the core concept: fast, personal, visual, and memorable.
